JOE JONES.

Some heartless wretch has been poking his proboscis among the flowers of poetry, and goes off in an agonizing parody on "Ben Bolt," in the following style:

Don't you remember lame Sally, Joe Jones?
Lame Sally, whose nose was so brown?
Who looked like a clam if you gave her a smile,
And went into fits at your frown?
In the old goose-pond in the orchard, Joe Jones,
Where the geese were learning to swim,
Lame Sally went fishing one wet, windy day,
And there by mistake tumbled in.

Under old Sam's brush fence, Joe Jones,
That winds at the foot of the hill,
Together we've seen the old camel go round,
Grinding elder at Appleton's mill.
The mill wheel is oiled now, Joe Jones,
The rafters fell on to a cow,
And the weasels and rats that crawl round as you gaze,
Are the lords of the cider-mill now.

Do you mind the pig-pen of logs, Joe Jones,
Which stood on the path to the barn?
And the shirt-button trees, where they grew on the boughs,
Which we sowed on our jackets with yarn?
The pig-pen has gone to decay, Joe Jones,
And the lightning the tree overcame;
And down where the onions and carrots once grew,
Grow thistles as big as your thumb.

Don't you remember the school, Joe Jones?
And the master who wore the old wig?
And the shady nook by the creek of the brook,
Where we played with Aunt Catherine's pig?
Mice live in the master's wig, Joe Jones,
The brook with the creek is now dry;
And the boys and the girls that were playmates then,
Have all grown up ever so high!

There is a change in the things I love, Joe Jones,
They have changed from the good to the bad—
And I feel in my stomach, to tell you the truth,
I'd like to go home to my dad.

Twelve months, twenty, have passed, Joe Jones,
Since I knocked off your nose with a rail!
And yet I believe I am your only true friend,
Joe Jones of the Hurricane Gale.

Different Modes of Shaving.

The barber shaves with polished blade,
The merchant shaves in constant trade,
The broker shaves on twelve per cent,
The landlord shaves by raising rent,
The doctor shaves in patent pills,
The tapster shaves in pints and gills,
The farmer shaves in hay and oats,
The banker shaves on his own notes,
The lawyers shave both friend and foe,
The peddler shaves where'er he goes,
The parson shaves to men's salvation,
The office-holder shaves the nation,
The wily churchman shaves his brother,
The ally shaves one another.

AN EXTRAORDINARY SCENE IN IRELAND.—The Belfast papers describe an extraordinary scene before the house of the man Baird, in Monaghan, from which the Orangemen recently fired upon their assailants. After the inquest on the body of Hughes, who died from the wounds then received, his friends made a procession, carrying the remains in front of a hearse. When they arrived opposite Baird's the procession halted, as by previous concert, and the whole number, above 2,000 men, kneeling down, shouted "Murder, murder," and prayed maledictions upon Baird and his household. "For full twenty minutes," the Belfast News Letter says, "they cursed him and his family in a manner dreadful to listen to. They then got off their knees and the coffin was raised to the shoulders of the six young men who had previously carried it. The hearse was again started, and the coffin bearers marched slowly after it, followed by a large crowd."

The women took a prominent part in the attack on the Orangemen and in the breaking of the windows. They gathered stones from laneways near for the use of their male friends, and some were in attendance with hammers to break them, so as to make them fit for throwing. It is the credit of several of the Roman Catholic priesthood of the town that they strove to persuade the Roman Catholic mob not to attack the Orangemen. At the graveyard the Rev. Mr. Duffey, the parish priest, addressed those assembled in a manner calculated to allay excitement. "He had done his utmost to keep the people under his care from being engaged in any disturbances, but his advice had not been attended to, and those who loved the danger must just perish therein." The military detachment has been withdrawn from the town, and all apprehension of a renewal of the rioting has ceased.

MEXICAN BEES.—The honey bees of West Mexico and Honduras are very different from our own. There are fourteen distinct species of them, one of which makes a small nest, or hive, of capsules, with a waxy covering like isinglass, filled with a delicious fluid generally used in medicine. An exchange says of them:

The hives of these bees contain over 1,000 insects, smaller than ours, whereas those of Europe have from 10,000 to 20,000 of much larger size; but the Mexican insect, which is stingless, is raised with very little trouble, and all the honey can be taken out twice in the summer without disturbing the bees, as they are widely separated from the brood-cells and honey sacks or bottles, which sack often measures seven inches in length by five in diameter, and the active little jokers continued on their labors as if nothing had happened. The Mexican bee masters assert that their species have a sentinel always placed over the entrance of each hive, which is relieved every few hours, to keep a look-out for the armies of black ants, their worst enemies. Several of the hives of the Angel bees were brought to San Francisco from Mexico in 1853, but we know not what was done with them, though bee swarms were then selling from $100 to $200 apiece.

BLACK AND BLUE.—The Rads profess great love for the Boys in Blue, yet are they much more attentive to those in black.

FRANK BLAIR was born in Lexington, Kentucky, a place famous for thoroughbreds and certain winners.

GENERAL JACKSON AND GENERAL GRANT. General Grant has a sentinel marching in front of his house night and day. When his little boy twelve years of age, rides to school every day, he is accompanied by two orderlies in the uniform of the United States army. In referring to this, a correspondent of the Macon (Ga.) Telegraph relates the following incident of General Jackson's last visit to New Orleans:

"The fatigues of the day ended, the old hero repaired with many of the citizens, to apartments prepared for him in the magnificent structure, the St. Louis Hotel. The Captain of an Irish company detailed a stalwart son of Erin as a sentinel at the General's door. There he was walking his rounds, when the General observed him, and, turning to General Lewis, asked:

"What does this mean?"

"Only a sentinel at your door, General."

"I shall ever remember that look, and the exclamation, 'My God!' as he strode up to the sentinel with a manner which was the General's only:

"My good man," said he, "what are you doing at my door with a musket in your hands?"

"The Captain placed me here as your guard, General."

"Am I not in the midst of the American people? Am I in danger from these? Or is this intended as an honor to me? If so I deserve it! Go home, sir, and get your dinner," and turning to his guests he continued:

"Whenever an American citizen, by his public conduct, renders a public guard necessary to his protection, beware of that man!"

DEATH OF A GIANT.—The Cleveland (Ohio) Harold says: The agent of Miss Kate Keathley, the Missouri giantess, was telegraphed at this city Wednesday morning to the effect that Miss K. died on Saturday last, at her home, about twenty-five miles from St. Louis. She had just returned from a trip to Omaha. Many people all over the country will remember Miss Keathley, probably the heaviest woman ever exhibited. She weighed 812 pounds. Her education was much better than is usually possessed by persons of her class, and she was able to converse intelligently and agreeably with her visitors.

DECISION IN THE LAND OFFICE.—The Commissioner of the General Land Office, in reply to inquiries, states that homestead entries can only be made upon surveyed land, after a return to the proper District Land Office of the official plat of the survey; also, that the right of a settler under a homestead entry attaches only from the date of the entry. Settlers upon unsurveyed land, desiring to secure their improvements made prior to the return of the survey, may obtain priority of right as against subsequent claims under the provisions of the pre-emption laws, and filing declaratory statement thereof before the expiration of three months after date of the return of the survey to the District Office.

RATS—HOW TO FIX THEM.—Chloride of lime has frequently proved a sure thing to drive rats away from any place infested by them. An ounce of it scattered in the place where they come to feed, or wrapped in a bit of muslin, and put in their holes, where it acquires dampness, produces a gas that is not offensive to man, but is to the rats. If chloride of lime is moistened with muriatic acid, and placed in a drain, vault or cellar, and closed from the air a little while, the rats will depart, because it will be death to remain. This is also a good disinfectant, and will, for a time, cure the effluvia of a dead rat. One application of chloride of lime to rat holes has driven them away for a year, when a renewal of it started them again.

ANOTHER MAN CARRIED OVER NIAGARA.—No little excitement was produced in Niagara, July 18th, by the announcement that another victim had been added to the list of those who have gone over the Falls. At about 3 o'clock that afternoon, as the General Superintendent of Goat Island was passing Bridge No. 3, on the islands known as the "Three Sisters," he discovered the body of a man passing directly under the bridge. Following the body down the stream, he saw it pass over the Horse-Shoe Falls.

FORNEY IN PRAISE OF SEYMOUR.—Honor to New York! Her Governor has acted like a man, who knows when the time for partisanship is at an end. Her gallant Seventh is now at Harrisburg, and, side by side with our brave Pennsylvanians, are preparing to resist the invaders. This is the true spirit of brotherly love. But while the city of New York is doing so much to save our State, what is the city of Philadelphia doing?—Forney's Press, June, 1863.

LESLIE COOMES, the bosom friend of Henry Clay, says he is now called a copperhead because he believes that God made man and other animals as He desired they should be—that the negro is not a white man no more than a polecat is a lion.

THE N. Y. Citizen says of Commodore Vanderbilt:

Penurious to the tenth of a cent when the pockets or bellies of his poor employees are to be pinched—arrogant, tyrannical and exacting, when the public purse is to be laid under tribute for his private benefit; utterly reckless of any human life that is not his own or in possession of his family or toadies—we hereby enter our solemn protest, on behalf of the people, against any action tending to endow this bad old money-moloch with any further power over the lives and purses of the Empire State.

Newspaper Laws.

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary, are considered as wishing to continue their subscription.
2. If subscribers wish their paper discontinued, publishers may continue to send them until all charges are paid.
3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take their papers from the office or place to which they are sent, they are held responsible until they settle their bills and give due notice to discontinue.
4. If subscribers move to other places without informing the publisher, and the paper is sent to the former direction, they are held responsible. Notice should always be given of the removal.
5. The Courts have decided, that refusing to take a paper from the office, or removing and leaving it uncollected, is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

THE FOLLOWING LETTERS
from well-known physicians and individuals show the estimation in which this celebrated preparation is held by those who have used them:

PITTSBURGH, May 16, 1866.
Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gentlemen:—During a visit in the West last Fall, I contracted chills and fever, which brought me to my bed, and finally terminated in typhoid fever, and confined me to my room for several months. During which time I was so prostrated that I almost despaired of ever recovering health; having entirely lost my appetite for days, not being able to eat a morsel; added to which I was much distressed with a feeling of nausea in my head, and passed many sleepless nights—all from debility caused by my prostrate condition, brought about by the fever. At this stage of my condition a friend recommended me to use your celebrated Stomach Bitters; but being morally opposed to the use of stimulants in any form, I at first declined, but afterwards yielded my prejudices, and after taking the medicine for several weeks as directed, my appetite returned, and with it I am rapidly regaining my former strength and vigor. My sleep at present is better than it is now, and the feeling sensation (before alluded to) has entirely left me. My bowels, which were much constipated and irregular, are now quite natural, and, in fact, I am glad to say that I feel myself a new man, and tender you this testimonial of my appreciation of your valuable preparation, in order that others suffering as I have may avail themselves of its virtues, which I believe prevent me from enjoying health for so long a period. I may also add that my physician, after seeing the beneficial effect your Bitters had, recommended that I use them regularly.

Yours, very respectfully,
E. BORNE, 45 Market Street.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 4, 1866.
Messrs. Hostetter & Smith, Pittsburg, Pa.—Gents:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. I think I do it to the best advantage, inasmuch as, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds having been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system—so much so, that I have been induced to use them every Summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable. This Summer, having a similar attack (and as before, much reduced), although under the treatment of a No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pounds within a few days. I put in a bottle of Stomach Bitters a few weeks since, and propose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
Yours, gratefully, WM. MILLER.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gents:—It is with the greatest pleasure that I recommend your Stomach Bitters to the public. I think it the best Bitters of the day. It is especially adapted to the South and West, where bilious derangements of the liver are prevalent. Ten years' experience in the use of compounds as curatives, compels me to give your Bitters the preference that its popularity merits.

A. ANGLE, M. D.

MATTHEWS, Ill., Jan. 21, 1865.
Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gentlemen:—I will more of your Stomach Bitters than of any other medicine. Parties who have tried them speak in very high praise of their excellent virtues. I have used them myself, and prescribe them with unparalleled success.

Very respectfully yours,
G. T. GILMER, M. D.

EFFINGHAM, Effingham Co., Va.
Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gentlemen:—With pleasure I can say that your Bitters are superior to any others. I have used them in my family for a long time, and always with beneficial results.

Yours, very truly, ROBT. GILBERT.

BUCKLAND, Prince William Co., Va.
January 27, 1866.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gents:—I believe your Bitters are the best in use. I tried them for dyspepsia in 1863, and they cured me. It was not until that time that I had no faith in them; I tried them to please a friend. I had been prostrated for several weeks with dyspepsia and chronic diarrhoea. I expected to die, but less than one bottle so far restored me that I could attend to my business. Last October I overworked myself, which resulted in a return of the same disease, accompanied with bronchial affection, when I again used your Bitters, and was soon restored to health. I have recommended them to hundreds of my acquaintances, and have never known them to fail in effecting a speedy cure.

Truly yours, MIRANDA CHAPPEL,
Postmaster at Buckland, Va.

ELBERTON, Pa., Nov. 6, 1865.
Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gentlemen:—We have been selling your Stomach Bitters for eighteen months and find them an excellent medicine. All that is necessary is to let the people know their virtue, and they will use them. I have tried them myself, and now recommend them to all who have weak stomachs.

Respectfully yours,
WATKINSON & McFARLAND, Druggists.

ODDESBURG, Sussex Co., N. J.,
September 18, 1865.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gentlemen:—For a long time I have been afflicted with a disordered stomach, and was unable to attend to any business. I was advised to use your Bitters, which I did, they proving of great benefit to me. I believe had it not been for them I should have been in my grave this day. I write not only to testify to the virtue of your Bitters, but also to have you ship me two dozen as soon as possible, as I am now keeping a store.

Yours, respectfully, JOHN M. GREACH.

BORER'S STORE, Gibson Co., Ind.,
December 5, 1864.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith—Gentlemen:—I have received so much benefit from using your Bitters that I feel in duty bound to give my testimony to their great virtue. I have been in very poor health for more than two years—afflicted with indigestion and loss of spirits. I tried a great many medicines, but failed to find any relief. Finally I was persuaded to try your Stomach Bitters, and found my health greatly improved. I continue to use them from time to time, and was restored to perfect health. I make this statement for the benefit of those who are suffering with a private disease.

Yours, respectfully, J. M. BOREN.

Such is the tenor of the correspondence received by almost every mail at the manufactory at Pittsburg. The foregoing letters are given in full, as specimens of its general character, and as valuable information furnished by those who have been relieved to those who suffer. It is not necessary at this late day to publish elaborate testimonials as a means of proving this great National Specific. It has obtained a firm hold on the confidence of the public, and reached the best class, through the legitimate medium of experimental demonstration. No one ventures to impugn its medicinal merits. They are everywhere confessed.
